

QUALITY POLICY AND OBJECTIVES

It is LMG Marin's policy that:

LMG Marin shall continuously develop the Quality Management system in accordance with NS-EN ISO 9001:2015.

LMG Marin shall continuously aim to improve the Quality management system and its tools in order to meet market requirements and expectations, as well as expectations of the identified interested parties when applicable.

The Quality Management system shall ensure that products and services comply with specified requirements and with domestic and international laws, regulations and standards.

Quality is a management responsibility, and managers are responsible for Quality systems within their own projects or units.

All personnel shall be provided with the necessary training to ensure implementation of LMG Marin's quality policy.

The Quality Management system shall ensure that personnel are encouraged to report non-conformances and that these are handled without undue delay.

LMG Marin's primary objective is to be a leading ship technical engineering and design company within market sectors for ship industry, offshore energy and logistics based on professional competence, innovation and quality throughout the work.

We shall meet our customers' expectations within an agreed framework in order to provide timely services and to achieve and maintain our status as preferred vendor.

We shall stimulate our employees to be creative and actively engaged by establishing and maintaining a working environment based on team spirit and inclusiveness.

We shall focus on continuous improvement when performing quality work, with the aim of providing further growth and profitability for LMG Marin.

As managing director, I am aware that I have final responsibility for quality, safety and security, and therefore I will personally be involved in monitoring and measuring the system to ensure that the QA system is according to regulations and standards. For measurements, monitoring and maintenance on daily basis a Quality Assurance Manager is appointed.
